

Léonard She Okitundu Lundula, Democratic Republic of Congo
Speaker, Round table: Regional Parliamentarian Networks in favour of abolition

Born on 8 March 1946, son of Dovell Okitundu and Kitenge Avoki, he is a lawyer by training and worked for Caritas dvpt in Switzerland for a long time, until 1997. He is also a Congolese politician, senator of the province of Sankuru since December 2006, member of the APM (Alliance for the Presidential Majority) and co-founder of the People's Party for Reconstruction and Democracy (PPRD) of which he was candidate for the Presidency of the Senate, which was won by Kengo Wa Dondo, the former Prime Minister of Mobutu Sese Seko. She Okitundu has been minister several times since 15 March 1999, including minister of Human Rights, International Cooperation and Foreign Affairs. He was also a Goodwill Ambassador (2003) and then Chief of Staff for the President Joseph Kabila (2003 to 2006).